A Camp-Meeting-A Tramping Party. Personal.

COVINGTON, VA., September 11.-(Spe-An cld-fashioned camp-meeting, all the picturesque features of an out-of-doors tabernacie, an implerised kitchen of vast proportions, tables set under broad oaks, a numerous cheir, singing with voices strong and true the soul-stirring hymns of Moody and Sankey, has been the objective point of the driving parties for the past week. The beautiful mountain road, with its limple stream and cool springs, was not the least of the attractions, and merry unique to all the people of the present generation.

A large tramping party of young people, equipped in 'cycle or golf costumes, took a five-mile walk to the top of a neighboring mountain on Sunday afternoon, from which the? enjoyed an exquisite view of the valley, with Jackson river winding like a silver band through the green fields.

Mrs. H. G. Merry and her sister, Mrs. Frank Iva Phillips, of Low Moor, entertained a number of lady friends at a beautiful matines euchre party on Friday at 3 o'clock. The handsome home of Mr. Merry, superintendent of the Low Moor Iron Furnace, was most attractively decorated, and the beautiful grounds and flowers made a lovely setting for the entertainment. The prizes were very handsome, and the collation dainty and elegant. Among those fortunate enough to be included in this charming party were Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee, Miss Lee, Mrs. Camm, the Misses Camm, Mrs. Smythe, Miss Godfrey, Mrs. Tuilis Walker, Mrs. John Etchison, Jr., Mrs. Sydney Stewart, and Miss Livingston, Mrs. Hugh Nelson, and others.

Little Master Osborne Dodge Walker

Little Master Osborne Dodge Walker was the host on the occasion of the most enjoyable juvenile party of the season on Monday evening. A very ingenious grab-bag of bright-colored papers, profusely decorated with paper roses, was suspended by a broad pink sash from the centre chandelier of the ball-room. The children, about twenty-five in number, were blindfolded in turn, and given a chance to strike it with a cane. The failures to reach it were a source of great merriment to the participants, as well as to the older folk, who gathered to witness their fun. The "grab" seemed to result in great satisfaction, and the little people ended their party with a dance. Little Master Osborne Dodge Walker

Dr. J. Robertson Gildersleeve, of Tazewell county, Va., spent several days with friends here, on his return from the medi-cal convention at Hot Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Stahl and their handsome little son, Vinton, are among the popular guests. Mr. Stahl is navai constructor at the Norfolk yards. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McElroy, of Kansas City, Mo., are an addition to the social life here.

Shooting Sora in the Mountains-Personal Notes.

TAZEWELL, VA., September 11.-(Special.)-Sora shooting for the past two weeks has given the sportsmen much enjoyment. It is difficult to convince the sportsmen on the Eastern Shore that we have sora here at an altitude of 2,500 recently that they migrate here until recently that they migrate here on the first eastern storm in the fall of the year. This, however, is not true, be-cause they are found here all through the summer months.

The last of the series of delightful excursions to the seashore under the management of Mrs. Gill, superintendent of the Male Orohan Asylum, and given for the benefit of that worthy institution will be run to Oid Point and Ocean View to-morrow, leaving the Broad-Street Station of the Chesapeake and Ohlo railway at 8:30 A. M., and returning that night about 10 o'clock. A special rate of 15 cents has been secured for the excursionists from Oid Point to Ocean View, and it is expected that a large crowd will avail themselves of this opportunity for a whint of ocean breezes. Mrs. Gill always carries large crowds of the best people of the city, and her excursions are well managed throughout. She well deserves her success.

Many Guests Still Linger-The German-Euchre.

BLUE RIDGE SPRINGS, VA., Septem ber 11 .- (Special.)-The brightest and best things "have but a time," and so it is with the gay season of 1897 at this charming resort. We still have here about seventy-five people, with a few arrivals daily. Extreme southern people will not return to their homes until the middle of October, and many of these prefer to remain in the mountains, to making a move to the cities. The german on Friday was quite as large as any danced during the height of the against the deadly yellow-fever plague stowed on this, the best, large german of Blue Ridge this summer. The gowns of the young ladies were just as dainty and fresh as if they had not seen summer's campaigning. nightly dance (Sunday excepted) Is still kept up, for with six "dancingmen" still with us, and a large number of young ladies, the interest in the ball-room is still kept alive. The children, too, of which there is a large number here, assemble early every evening in the ball-room and have the merriest dance of an old-fashioned "Virginia reel," into the merits of which they enter with a zeal and energy that is refreshing. Of all the figures seen in the ball-room, however, Colonel A. W. Spaight, of Galveston, commands most attention. Though past 76, his form is as erect, his step as light as a youth of 20. As soon as he makes his appearance at the door of the dancing-saloon the band strikes up the "Blue Danube," and the Colonel leads out the youngest, prettiest girl "for a turn" in This particular selection of the waltz. music is always played for him, for, like the boy who could only read in his own book, he can never dance quite so well by any other waltz.

Bowling-parties and card-parties are of daily occurrence. Two large progressive euchre parties were played this week. At the first of these Mr. Kennedy, of Norfolk, won first honor, a cut-glass flask with silver top; Miss Higgins, of the same city, took the second prize, a cut-glass and silver vinaigrette; third honor was captured by

Mrs. Pugh, of New Orleans, a leather belt, with silver buckle. WARM SULPHUR SPRINGS, VA., September 11.-(Special.)-The sunshine rests as an ever-present benediction upon the Warm Springs Valley during these hours, which are the crown and the rich fulfilment of all which have gone before them. The strong, racy atmosphere reanimates one like rare old wine; one awakens every morning to a thankful realization of beauty, health, and life all around and above, emphasizing the fact that, however rare a day in June may that, however rate a day in Julie may be in poetical parlance, there are days in this present that are rarer still.
